Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 22 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A dry day, with patchy cloud and sunny spells.

Today:
After a cool start with largely clear skies, patchy fair-weather cloud will bubble up as the day goes on. It will be a fine and dry day however, with plenty of sunny spells, and feeling warmer than yesterday in these. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying dry overnight, with cloud dissipating through the evening to allow for largely clear skies throughout. Turning chilly under these however, with patchy mist possible for prone locations. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Wednesday:
After a fine, dry start, cloud will gradually build across the region from the northwest. Northwestern areas likely seeing patchy rain or drizzle through afternoon, with southeastern staying largely dry. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Cloudy Thursday, with occasional light rain for northwestern areas but largely dry otherwise. Cloud persisting into Friday, with scattered, possibly heavy and thundery showers likely. Drier Saturday, with bright spells.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.